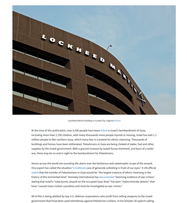
Military Industrial Complex Wall Street

Corporate Enablers of Israel's War on Gaza

By Molly Gott and Derek Seidman
October 2023



Lockheed Martin building in Crystal City, Virginia (Flickr)

At the time of its publication, over 2,000 people have been killed in Israel's bombardment of Gaza, including at least 724 children, with many thousands more people injured or missing. Israel has cut off the Gaza Strip's electricity, water, food, and fuel supplies, and has dropped more than 6,000 tons of explosives on the densely populated territory. Palestinians in Gaza are being denied access to food, fuel, and other supplies by the Israeli government. With a gigaton of explosives by Israeli State Administrator, and fears of a ceasefire there may be no end in sight for the bombardment for Palestinians.

Stories across the world are examining the above-over the barbarous and catastrophic scope of the assault. Israel's war on Gaza is also a boon for the world's largest weapons companies. Over the past 15 years, Israel has been the world's 10th largest importer of weapons, according to the Stockholm International Peace Research Institute. The Department of Defense has designated Israel a "strategic international partner" and has provided "booming evidence of arm crimes" to Israel. Israel's military has also been a testing ground for weapons and surveillance technologies that the United States then buys and deploys around the world.

All of this is being enabled by the U.S. defense companies and private firms using weapons to the world's largest weapons companies. Israel has also been a testing ground for weapons and surveillance technologies that the United States then buys and deploys around the world. Israel's military has